Department of Anthropology

1 Goldsmiths, University of London, New Cross, London, SE14 6NW
Goldsmiths Anthropology is a dynamic department with an international reputation for public facing and radical work. We are particularly proud of our vibrant research culture, which informs all of our teaching and encompasses: visual anthropology, political anthropology, environmental politics, global activist movements, public health providers, gambling policy and trades unions. Our collaborators include film-makers, economists, artists and galleries. Our regional expertise covers most of the world, including Europe, the Americas, Asia and Africa. As well as enjoying collaborations with individuals and organisations all over the world and in many disciplines, we also enjoy a strong connection with our local community.

We are home to approximately 400 undergraduate, 120 MA and 30 research postgraduate students. The Department offers five undergraduate degrees: BA in Anthropology/ Integrated Degree BA Anthropology, BA Anthropology and Visual Practice, BA in Anthropology and Media (with the Department of Media Communications and Cultural Studies), BA in Anthropology and Sociology (with the Department of Sociology), and BA History and Anthropology (with the Department of History). It also offers the following MA degrees: MA in Anthropology and Cultural Politics, MA in Social Anthropology, MA in Anthropology and Museum Practice, MA in Migration and Mobility, MA in Applied Anthropology and Community and Youth Work/ Community Development/Community Arts, MA in Visual Anthropology; an MRes in Anthropology, and an MRes in Visual Anthropology. In addition, it offers an MPhil/PhD in Anthropology, and an MPhil/PhD in Visual Anthropology. The Department of comprises 24 Academic staff, 20 Associate Lecturing staff, 8 administrative and technical staff, and approximately 10 Research Fellows and Postdoctoral Researchers

There is a weekly Departmental Research Seminar; the Department also organises workshops and conferences, and staff are welcome to attend events in other departments and units of the College.

Job description
Reporting to: Head of Department

You will join a dynamic Anthropology department offering a range of undergraduate and post-graduate programs in an institution specialising in the social sciences and arts and humanities.

The Department has an international reputation for excellence in teaching and research as demonstrated in the results of the 2014 Research Excellence Framework. You will have a PhD and teaching experience at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels. You will have an outstanding research and publication record, as well as considerable administrative experience, including demonstrable evidence of academic leadership.

While no particular regional specialisms are required, preference will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in the areas of race, gender and transnational feminism.

You will be expected to participate fully in research, teaching and administration. The normal teaching load is approximately 4 modules per annum, including core and option modules across the curriculum, as well as MA and research student supervision. There is regular rotation of teaching and administrative duties and members of the Department serve on a variety of College Committees.

All applicants are invited to submit a covering letter, foregrounding their research and teaching expertise and their suitability for the job, plus a curriculum vitae.

The post holder will be expected to be able to carry out the following duties in line with the grade of the post:

Main Duties:

- Teach anthropology UG and MA option modules
- Hold weekly feedback and consultation hours available to students
- Ensure that content, methods of delivery and learning materials will meet the defined learning objectives.
- Revise and develop teaching materials, methods and approaches with guidance.
- Challenge thinking, foster debate and develop the ability of students to engage in critical discourse and rational thinking.
- Supervise the work of students, provide advice of study skills and help them with learning problems.
• Select appropriate assessment instruments and criteria, assess the work and progress of students with reference to the criteria and provide constructive feedback to students.
• Appreciate the needs of individual students and their circumstances.
• Refer students as appropriate to services providing further help.
• Use teaching resources and facilities as appropriate.
• Understand equal opportunity issues as they may impact on academic content and issues relating to student need.
• You will be required to undertake any other duties as may reasonably be required
• Ensure that you are aware of and aligned with Goldsmiths’ Regulations, Strategy, and Objectives to work together to proactively advance Equality and Diversity
• At all times to help maintain a safe working environment by participating in training as necessary and following the Goldsmiths’ Health and Safety Codes of Practice and Policy

Person Specification

Detailed below are the types of qualifications, experience, skills and knowledge which are required of the post holder. Selection will be made upon evidence of best-fit with this criteria.

The Essential criteria sections show the minimum essential requirements for the post, therefore if you cannot demonstrate in your application you meet the essential criteria categorised below, you will not be invited to interview.

The Desirable criteria sections show additional attributes which would enable the applicant to perform the role more effectively with little or no training.
