Goldsmiths

Goldsmiths, University of London is a world-leading centre of educational excellence where ground-breaking research meets innovative teaching and thinking. We’re looking for inspiring and talented people to help build on our global reputation while also growing personally in a true learning organisation.

We are happy to supply information in alternative formats for disabled applicants. Please contact hr@gold.ac.uk to make your request.
Goldsmiths

Goldsmiths, University of London, is proud of its reputation for innovative and challenging thinking across its wide range of disciplines. One of its major strengths is its interdisciplinary ethos - the way in which departments, centres and units interrelate to offer new perspectives and insights.

The Department

The Department of Music is one of the largest and most vibrant in the UK, with over 300 students across three undergraduate programmes (Music, Popular Music and Electronic Music, Computing and Technology), and over 100 students on Masters and PhD programmes. The Department is a leader in creative practice research, combining theoretical areas – musicology of various kinds, analysis and ethnomusicology – with composition, performance, and sonic arts. Supporting its studies and research are the Stanley Glasser Electronic Music Studio and the Goldsmiths Music Studios, well-equipped rehearsal rooms, and performance venues including the Deptford Town Hall Council Chamber and the Goldsmiths Great Hall. Goldsmiths is at the forefront of music research in the UK, receiving in the most recent Research Excellence Framework (REF) top scores (100%) for the impact it has on wider society, and for the strength of its research environment. The Department hosts research units, centres and groups in Performance and creative practice work sit at the heart of the Music Department’s undergraduate and postgraduate programmes, and embrace a very wide range of repertoire, genres and approaches, from traditional orchestral and choral contexts, to popular music of all persuasions, jazz and improvised musics, gamelan, electronic and sonic arts, and cross-disciplinary and installation work. The Department supports a number of co-curricular ensembles, as well as hosting ‘Music Week’, an intensive week of rehearsal and performance at the beginning of the academic year, and in the third term, the ‘PureGold Festival’, a celebration of the diversity of its performance and composition which also acts as a showcase for graduation work.

The Department has 20 staff lecturers and professors and over sixty associate lecturers and instrumental tutors. The Heads of Department are currently Dr Lauren Redhead and Simon Deacon. For further information please view our web page at www.gold.ac.uk/music/

The Role

Reporting to: Heads of Department

Main duties
You will be a dynamic individual with a commitment to teaching in HE and a significant profile as a practitioner in fringe/popular musics, commensurate with our standing as a department of international renown.

The Department of Music contributes to Goldsmiths’ focus on creativity, innovation and interdisciplinarity. You will join a team of academic staff delivering our innovative and successful B.Mus. programme in Popular Music, as well as the M.Mus. (Creative Practice) pathway, where you will act as convenor and admissions tutor. It is expected that you will develop innovative teaching approaches and materials for creative practice and scholarship in fringe/popular musics within our curriculum, embracing the mix of academic and creative practice that underpins our teaching. It is also expected that you will have a good understanding of contemporary critical debates in fringe/popular music.
Your professional practice and experience should lie in creative practice broadly understood, performance, and (as appropriate) music production technologies. Areas of desirable expertise include improvisation, DIY and fringe culture, Afro-diasporic musics, audio-visual media/site-specific work, music industries. You will have teaching experience at HE level, with a demonstrable ability to engage and enthuse students in practice-based and theoretical work, and with experience of admissions and module coordination. You should have an undergraduate qualification in a relevant area, a postgraduate qualification, or equivalent professional experience.

The Department of Music contributes to the College’s profile as a leading centre for practice research. If hired on a Teaching & Research contract you will be able to demonstrate involvement with current practice and research (not necessarily limited to ‘practice research’) in the area, and experience in an interdisciplinary practice research environment. Within the ‘scholarship’ requirements of the post you will be work-loaded with hours to develop and present your own professional practice and/or research as a lecturer and scholar.

Main duties and responsibilities

Teaching:
- To provide lectures, seminars, tutorials and workshops for a range of undergraduate and postgraduate modules in creative and performance practice in fringe/popular musics
- To supervise undergraduate and postgraduate creative projects, according to expertise and experience
- To assess and provide feedback on student work at various levels, and to oversee the assessment of work, and the collation of marks, in modules for which co-ordination duties have been allocated
- To offer innovation and imagination in developing new teaching and assessment strategies for fringe/popular music practice-based work

Scholarship and professional experience:
- To bring experience of, and expertise in, high-level and current professional practice in your field;
- To bring awareness of contemporary critical debates in fringe/popular musics.
Research:
- To apply innovative strategies of research to teaching
- To produce leading work in your field

Administration:
- To act as course co-ordinator for undergraduate and postgraduate modules as appropriate, in consultation with the Heads of Department
- To convene and lead recruitment on the M.Mus. (Creative Practice) pathway
- To support admissions activities for B.Mus. (Popular Music)
- To contribute to recruitment at undergraduate and postgraduate levels by enhancing the local, national and international profile of Goldsmiths in the area of fringe/popular music
- To provide additional administrative support in areas involving the main teaching activities as agreed with the Heads of Department
- To undertake any other duties as may reasonably be required within the role descriptions for Lecturer B – see Appendix D1 and D2 here [https://goldmine.gold.ac.uk/Working/Documents/Academic%20and%20Research%20Role%20Profiles.pdf]
- To work as part of a large Departmental team of academic, administrative and technical staff, to act as a member of relevant departmental committees, and to contribute to and support departmental policies and procedures
- You will be required to undertake any other duties as may reasonably be required
- Ensure that you are aware of and aligned with Goldsmiths' Regulations, Strategy, and Objectives to work together to proactively advance Equality and Diversity
- At all times to help maintain a safe working environment by participating in training as necessary and following the Goldsmiths' Health and Safety Codes of Practice and Policy
